

Masterclass Five

Hepatitis B

Surgery for HCC

Wednesday 10 November

Hepatitis B is a viral infection of the liver and can cause an acute illness that resolves itself quickly, or in some cases it can cause a chronic illness that lasts for more than 6mths, or even for life.

Hepatitis B is one of the commonest causes of abnormal LFTs in the UK population and can lead to cirrhosis and the development of primary liver cancer. New anti-viral drugs have dramatically changed the outlook for HBV.

This session will highlight:

- tests for HBV and their interpretation
- who should have anti-viral treatment
- the outcome of liver surgery and transplantation for HBV and HCC
